14 Jan - Viveca Koh - 'From urban exploration to Fine Art: a photographic journey' - This presentation encompasses her photographic development over the past three years, which has progressed at a fairly rapid rate following an albeit slightly slower but life-long love and practise of photography.

21 Jan 16 - David Chapman and Adrian Langdon - David moved to Cornwall in 1992 where his passion for bird photography really grabbed hold and when he married Sarah they bought a small-holding near Hayle. This plot of land is excellent for wildlife with quite varied habitats for its modest size of five acres. David and Sarah are proud of their achievements in attracting and keeping some interesting wildlife species including Cetti's Warbler, Water Rail, Badgers, Adders as well as many 'common' species.

Adrian was born in Wadebridge, Cornwall in the UK where he has lived all his life. He is a proud Cornishman and much of his photography reflects his love of the County. He is fortunate to live in an area of great natural beauty, with many distinct and differing habitats on his doorstep. The North Atlantic coast is only 5 miles away with its steep cliffs and sandy beaches. To the North-East lies Bodmin Moor with its high tors and moorland flora & fauna. In between these areas lie the river valley and estuary of the River Camel which runs off the high moor to the sea at Padstow. Many of his bird pictures have been taken along the Camel
