With more than 11 years of experience in the education sector, I offer personalised photography tuition to students who may lack self-esteem, seek an outlet to enhance their mental well-being, and face challenges with the conventional curriculum.

With my background as an outdoor education instructor and photographer, I have developed tuition sessions held in Wiltshire, Dorset, and Hampshire. Students have the opportunity to engage with the AQA Award scheme (if their school is registered) or can simply use photography as a refreshing break from their daily school routine, allowing them to step away from their desks and tap into their creativity.

Photography can serve as an effective tool for managing and processing life experiences, thereby alleviating the stress they may place on your mental well-being. For many students, being outdoors and engaging with their personal interests while capturing their thoughts and feelings through photography can lead to increased happiness. This creative outlet not only creates a sense of accomplishment but also helps them readjust smoothly upon returning to the classroom.

Experienced in supporting young individuals with Adverse Childhood Experiences or those who find it challenging to participate in mainstream education, providing every student with an opportunity to thrive.
